Subject: Partnership & Strategic Aviation Vision to Connect Africa and Asia

Dear Gulfstream Aerospace Leadership Team,

I write to you on behalf of Socio Technologies Limited, the organization behind SocioAfrica and SocioAsia—initiatives dedicated to strengthening socio-economic cooperation, mobility, and shared development between Africa and Asia.

Our mission is rooted in a simple but powerful belief: distance should no longer limit collaboration, understanding, or opportunity between continents that together represent the majority of the world's population, youth, and future growth.

As our work expands across Africa and Asia, the need for reliable, ultra-long-range aviation capability has become increasingly important. Efficient mobility enables meaningful engagement with governments, institutions, development partners, educators, and economic stakeholders across multiple regions within demanding timelines.

In evaluating aircraft platforms that align with this mission, the Gulfstream G700 stands out as a compelling solution. Its range, operational efficiency, reliability, and advanced cabin environment position it not as a luxury asset, but as a strategic tool for intercontinental execution.

For SocioAfrica & SocioAsia, such an aircraft would serve as:

- A bridge between Africa and Asia for high-level engagement and coordination
- A platform for diplomacy, development missions, and economic forums
- A means of reducing dependence on fragmented commercial routing
- A tool to accelerate collaboration, trust, and long-term follow-through

Our interest in the G700 is guided entirely by mission requirements—reach, endurance, reliability, and the ability to operate seamlessly across diverse regions. These qualities align strongly with Gulfstream’s reputation for engineering excellence and leadership in long-range aviation.

For additional context on this vision and its broader objectives, please see the following publication:

We would welcome the opportunity to engage in further discussions to better understand how Gulfstream might support this initiative, whether through aircraft acquisition pathways, operational insights, or potential long-term partnership considerations.

Thank you for your time and for Gulfstream’s continued contribution to advancing global connectivity. We look forward to the possibility of working together to help bring Africa and Asia closer—practically, efficiently, and with purpose.
